

Credit Reporting Policy

This policy applies in addition to our Privacy Policy which deals with our handling of personal information generally. This policy sets out details specifically relating to our handling of personal information obtained from credit reporting bodies and certain other consumer credit-related personal information described below ('credit information'). This applies to non-business Clients who receive or apply for products or services on credit, and to any guarantor of a Client's credit with us. The terms and conditions of your products and services may also contain provisions relevant to our handling of credit information.

1 Collection of credit information

1.1 We may collect and hold any types of credit information about an individual permitted under the Privacy Act, including:

- (a) your name, sex, date of birth, current address and previous two addresses;
- (b) the name of your employer;
- (c) your driver's licence number;
- (d) the fact that you have applied for credit and the amount and type of credit;
- (e) credit limits;
- (f) certain terms relating to credit arrangements;
- (g) confirmation of previous information requests to credit reporting bodies made by other credit providers, mortgage insurers and trade insurers;
- (h) details of your current and previous credit providers;
- (i) start and end dates of credit arrangements;
- (j) permitted payment default information, including information about related payment arrangements and subsequent repayment;
- (k) information that, in our or another credit provider's opinion, suggests you have committed a serious credit infringement (that is, that you have acted fraudulently or shown an intention not to comply with your credit obligations);
- (l) information about court judgments against you;
- (m) publicly available information about your credit worthiness;
- (n) certain insolvency information from the National Personal Insolvency Index; and
- (o) any credit score or credit risk assessment indicating a credit reporting body's or credit provider's analysis of your eligibility for consumer credit.

1.2 This information may include information about your arrangements and applications with other credit providers as well as with us.

1.3 Where we collect credit information about you from a credit reporting body, we may use that information to produce our own assessments and ratings in respect of your credit worthiness.

1.4 This information is collected in a variety of ways, including by way of personal contact, as well as mail, telephone, email and online. We may also collect and use personal information available from related entities (as that term is defined by the Corporations Act 2001), public sources, and from other third party sources including our service providers such as credit reporting bodies and information service providers.

2 Use and disclosure of credit information

2.1 In general, we collect, hold, use and disclose credit information to:

- (a) provide our products and services to Clients;
- (b) manage credit arrangements;
- (c) collect overdue payments;
- (d) verify your identity and personal information;
- (e) maintain and update our records and carry out other administrative tasks;
- (f) deal with and assess your applications, enquiries and concerns (including in relation to financial hardship);
- (g) produce assessments and ratings in respect of your credit worthiness;
- (h) prevent, detect, investigate and deal with unlawful activity and misconduct (whether actual or suspected); and
- (i) comply with legal obligations and protect our lawful interests.

2.2 We may also use and disclose your credit information in connection with acquisitions or potential acquisitions of our business or assets, including any sale of debt.

2.3 We may exchange credit information with:

- (a) service providers and specialist advisers who have been contracted to provide administrative, financial, research, archival, auditing, accounting, customer contact, credit management, debt collection, legal, business consulting, banking, payment, delivery, data processing, data analysis, information broking, research, marketing, investigation, website, technology or other services;
- (b) insurers, lawyers, courts, tribunals and regulatory authorities (including the Australian Tax Office) as required or authorised by law or in accordance with their reasonable information requests;

3.3 You can contact those credit reporting bodies or visit their websites to see their policies on the management of credit information, including details of how to access your credit information they hold.

3.4 From 12 March 2014, you have the right to request credit reporting bodies not to:

- use your credit information to determine your eligibility to receive direct marketing from credit providers; and
- use or disclose your credit information, if you have been or are likely to be a victim of fraud.

4 Management of credit information

4.1 We hold credit information electronically and in hard copy form, both at our own premises and with the assistance of our service providers. We implement a range of measures to protect the security of that information. We are also required to take reasonable steps to destroy or de-identify information when no longer needed for any permitted purpose.

5 Accessing your credit information

5.1 Under privacy laws, you may have the right to obtain access to credit information which we hold about you and to advise us of any perceived inaccuracy. We will consider any recommendation by you to change or correct information and advise you of the action taken. You may request to access your credit information by contacting us by a method set out in Section 7 of this Policy. Depending upon the information you seek, you may be asked:

- (a) to complete an Information Request Form;
- (b) to verify your identity in writing; and/or
- (c) if the inquiry involves extensive administration time or resources, to pay a fee. If this is the case, we will advise the likely cost in advance and can help refine your request if required.

5.2 Please note that in circumstances prescribed by the Privacy Act, you may be refused access to or correction of your credit information (for example, if providing access would be unlawful or would have an unreasonable impact upon the privacy of other individuals). In these circumstances we are required to provide you our reasons and if you request, make a note of your requested correction with the relevant information.

6 Complaints about an interference with privacy

6.1 If you consider that any action taken by us breaches this Credit Reporting Policy or privacy laws, you can make a complaint by contacting us by a method set out in Section 7 of this Policy. We will endeavour to act promptly in response to a complaint.

6.2 If your privacy concerns are not resolved to your satisfaction, you may contact the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner at www.oaic.gov.au and on 1300 363 992.
